Make 1 sentence using all (or as many as you can) the words, using each word once, & only adding 'the' or 'and' if absolutely necessary! Yes, it's a giant run-on!

Keep track of what words you wish you had, then create a final sentence using all words + added words.

Note: when you use a word, it must have the same meaning as in the text.

Our sample:

Ice man's frozen body pre-served in Europe's Italian-Austrian Alps from 5000 yrs. In 3,000 BC links 1991 clues to life, tools, skin clothing stitched by sewing in a community to the laboratory

Wished we had: scientist,
discovered, border

The final summary would include the new words as well.
